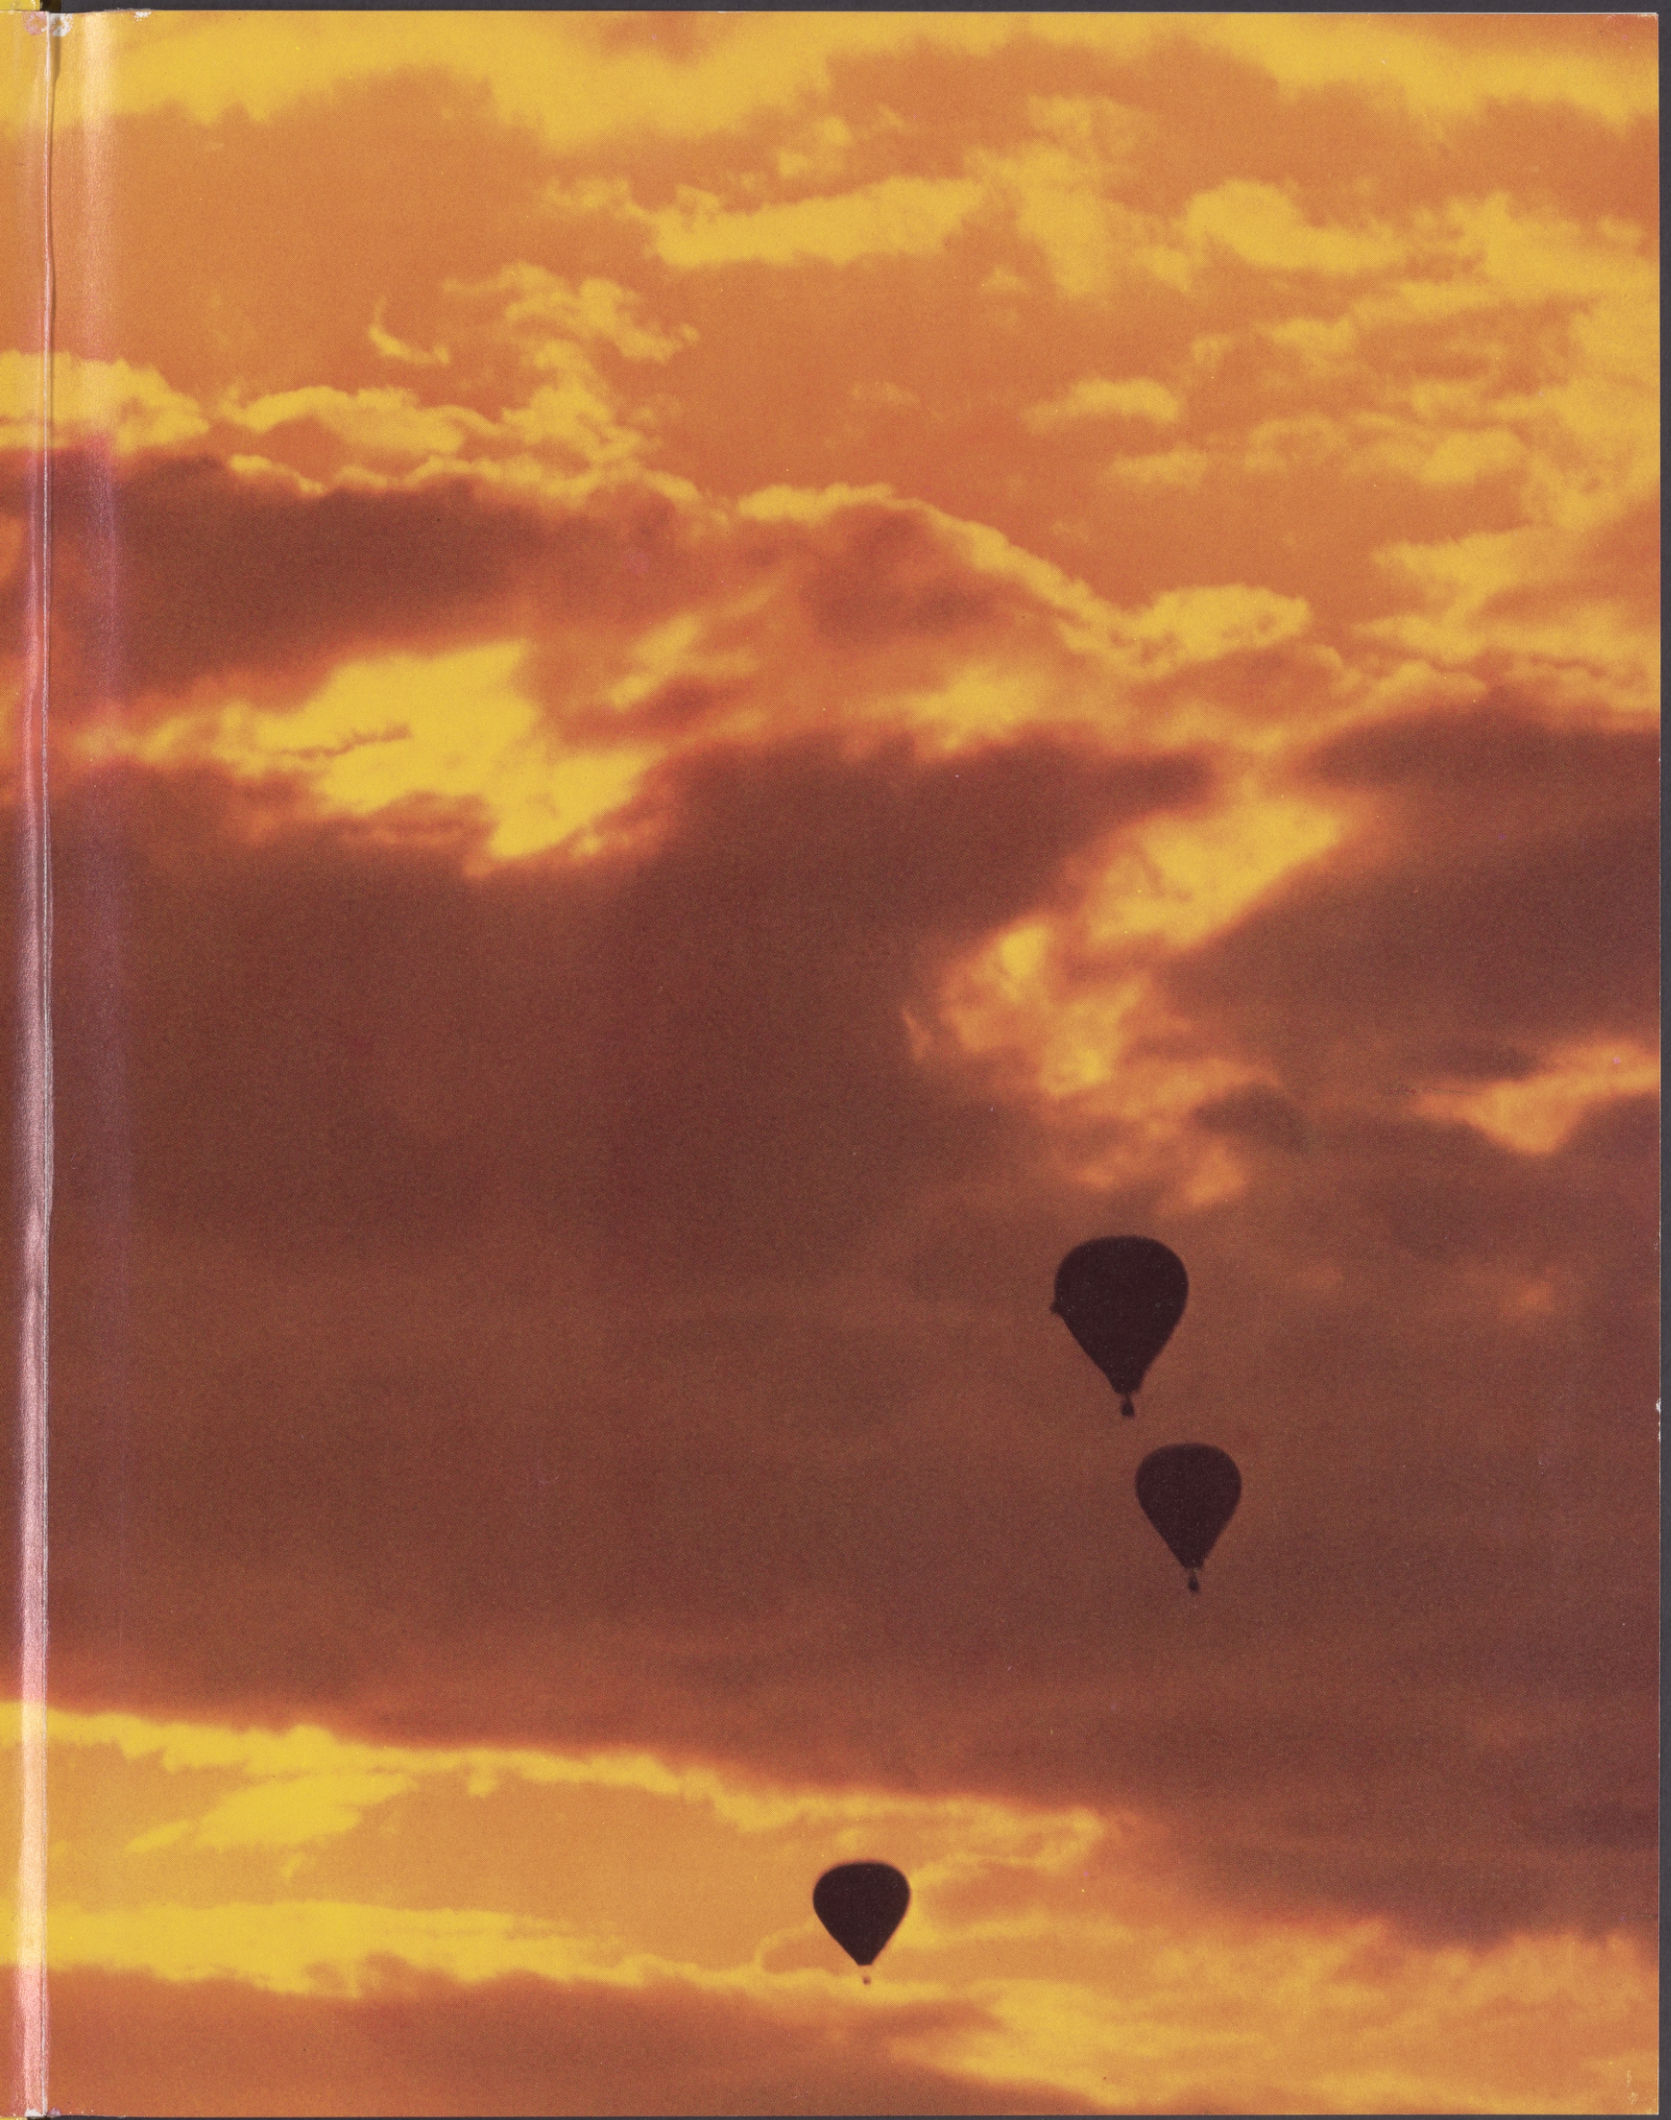
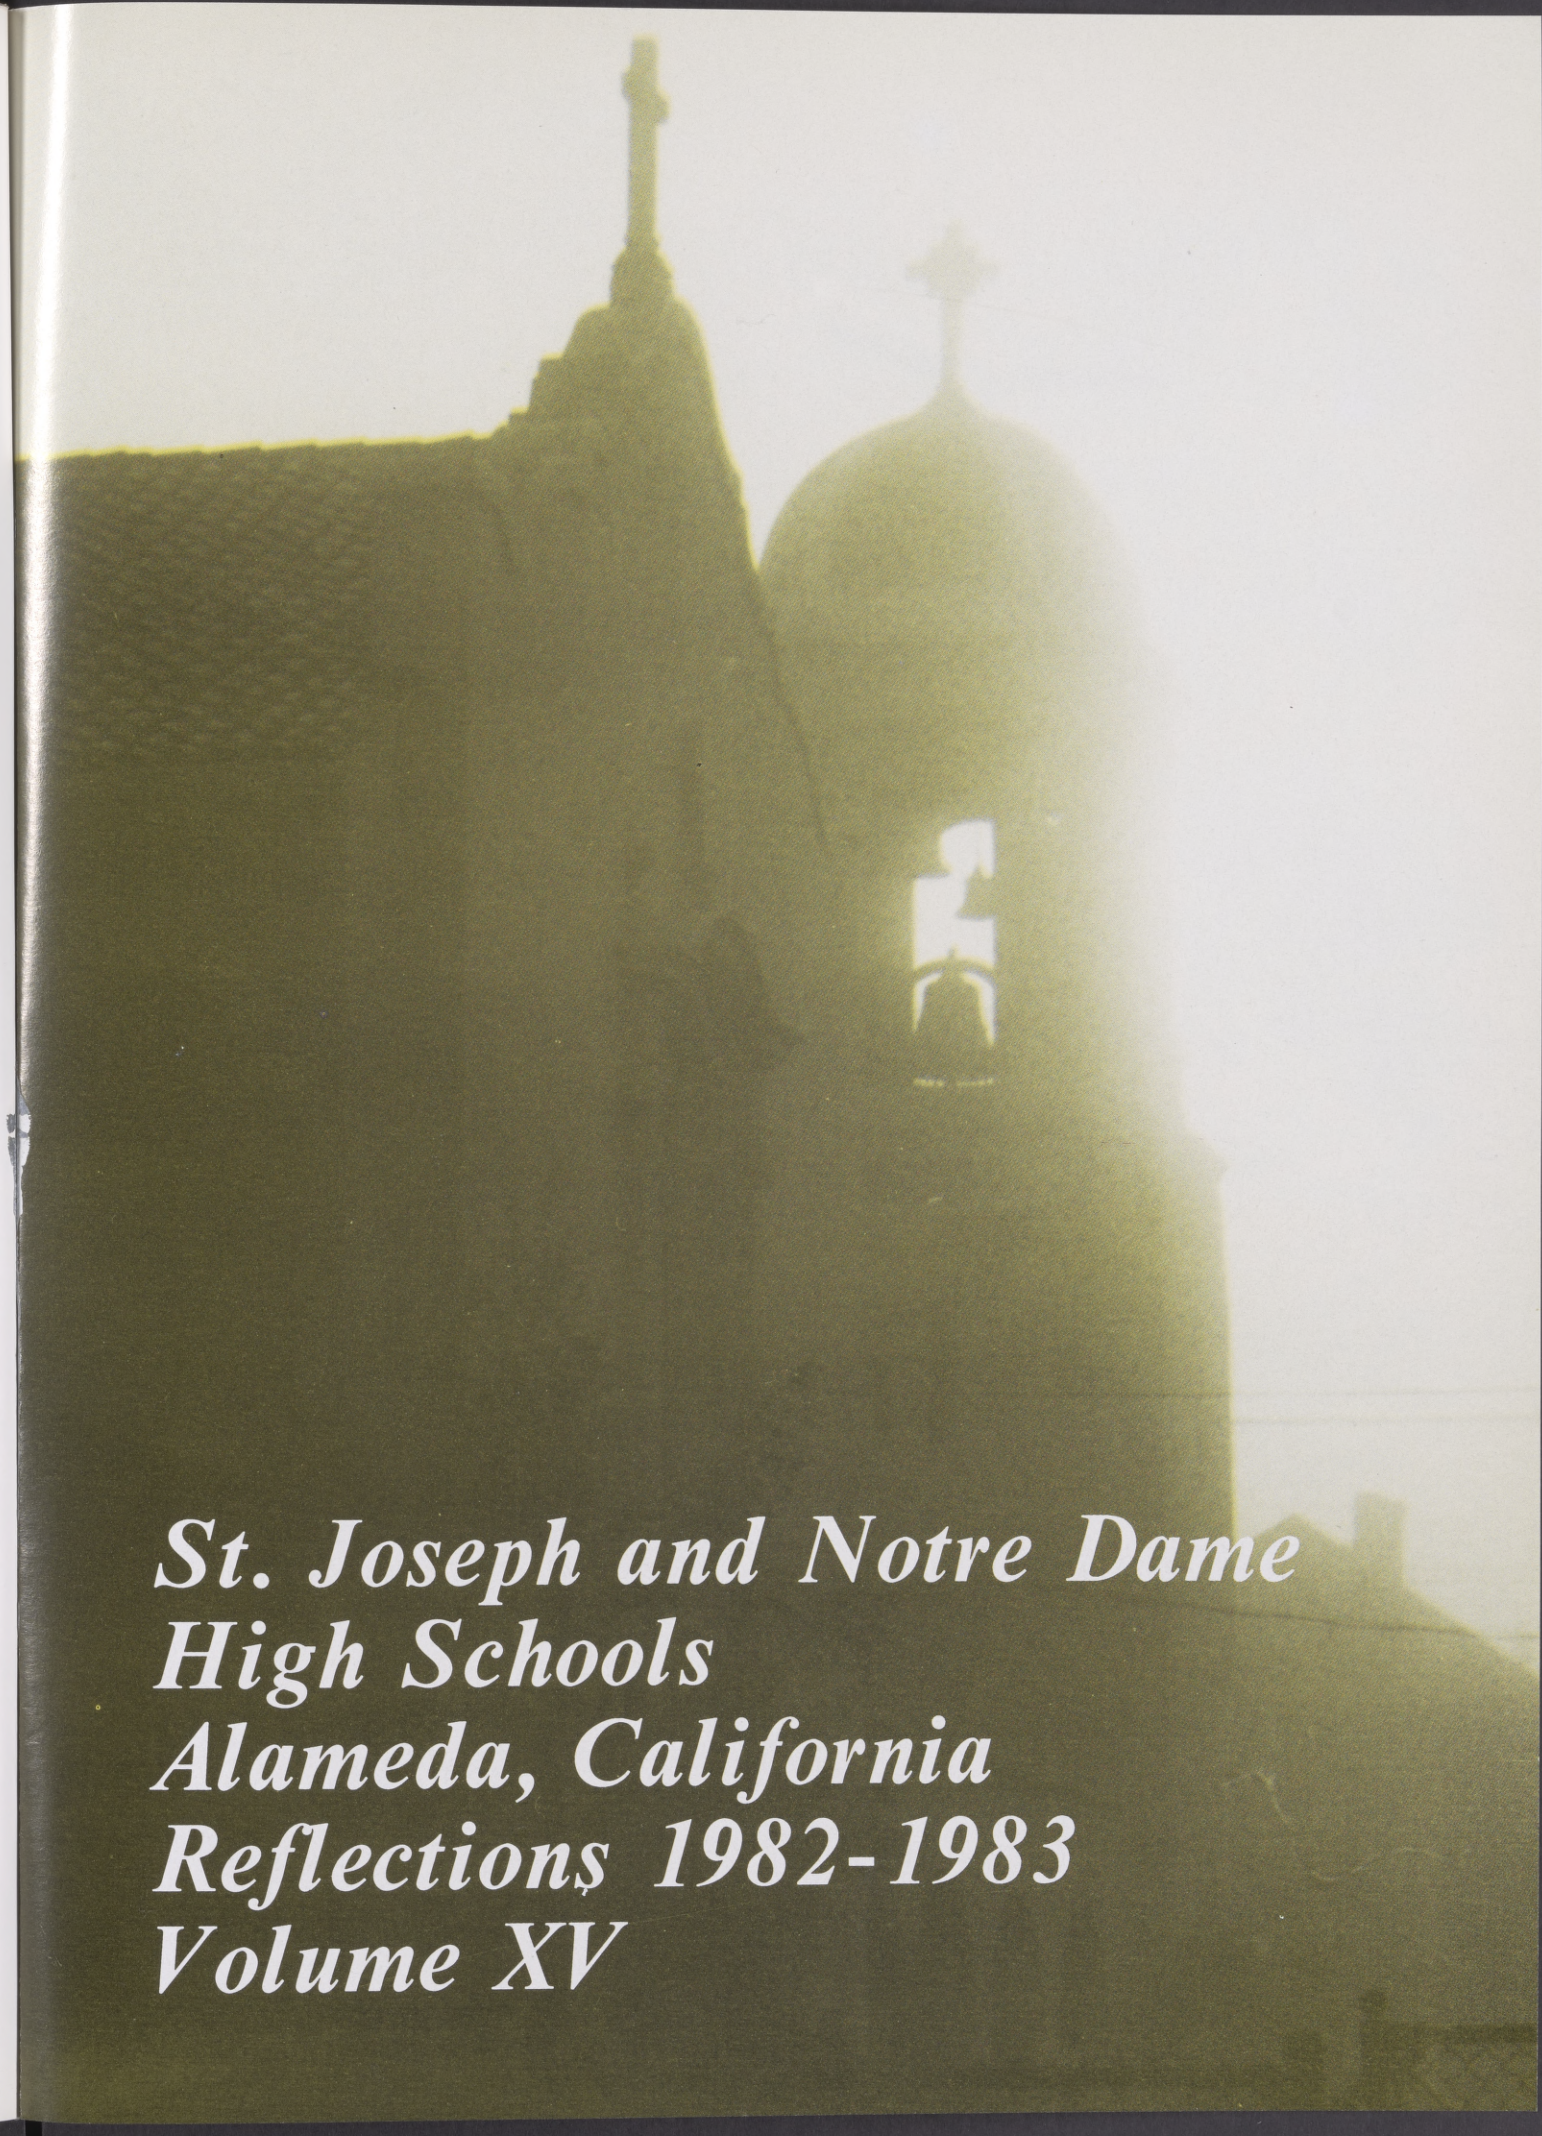
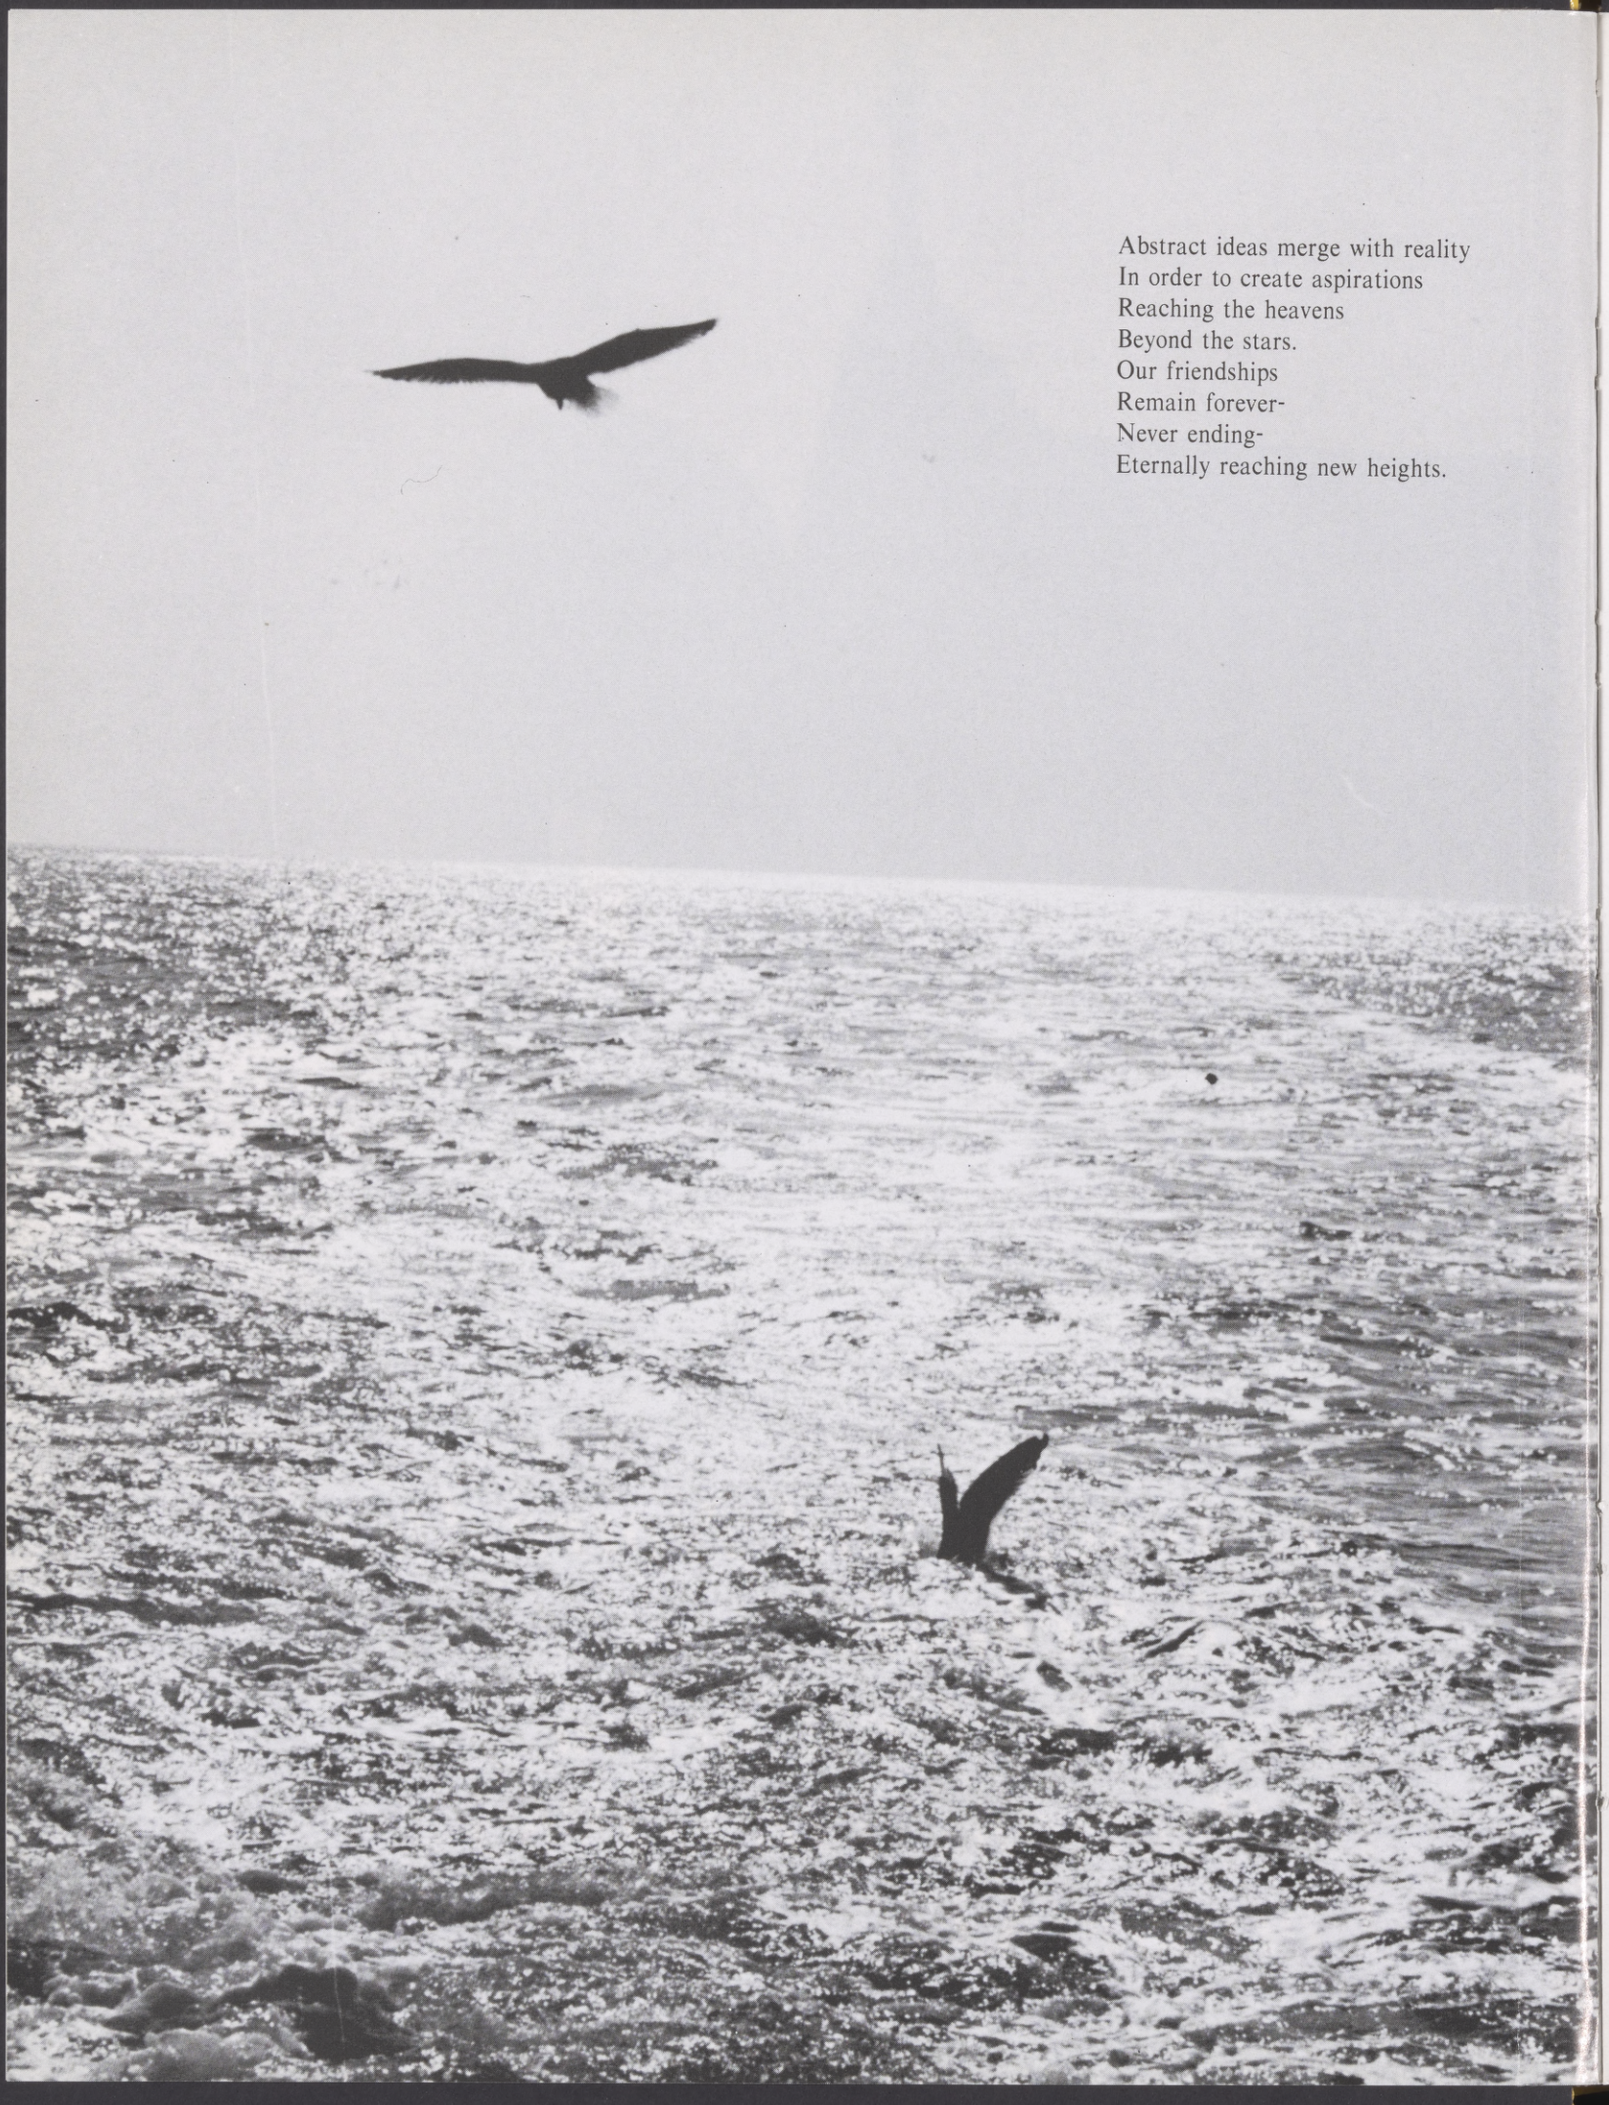
REFLECTIONS 1983

SJ



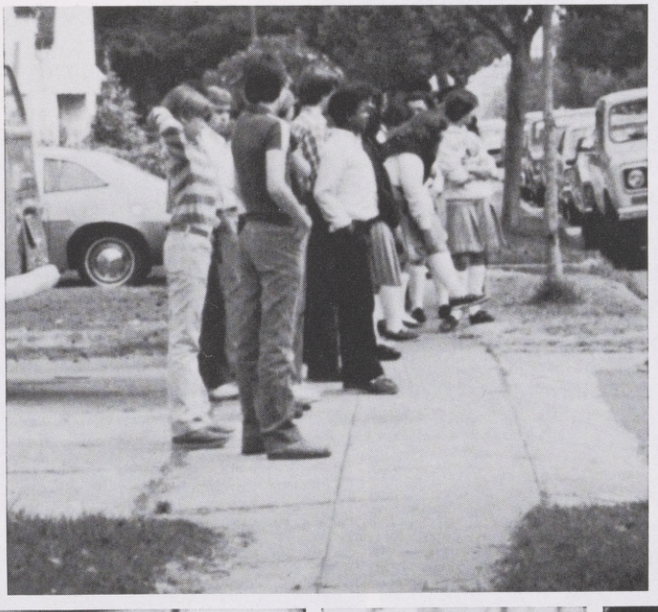


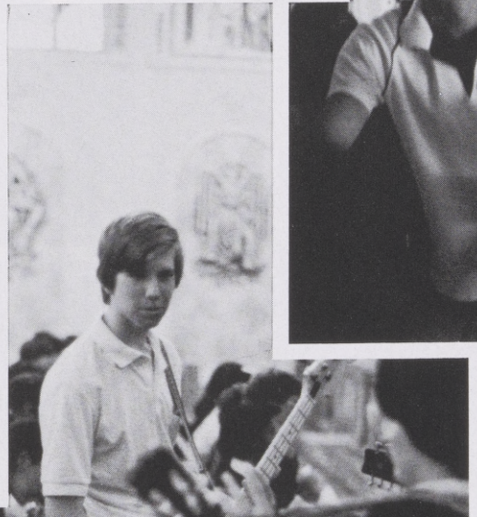
St. Joseph and Notre Dame High Schools Alameda, California Reflections 1982-1983 Volume XV



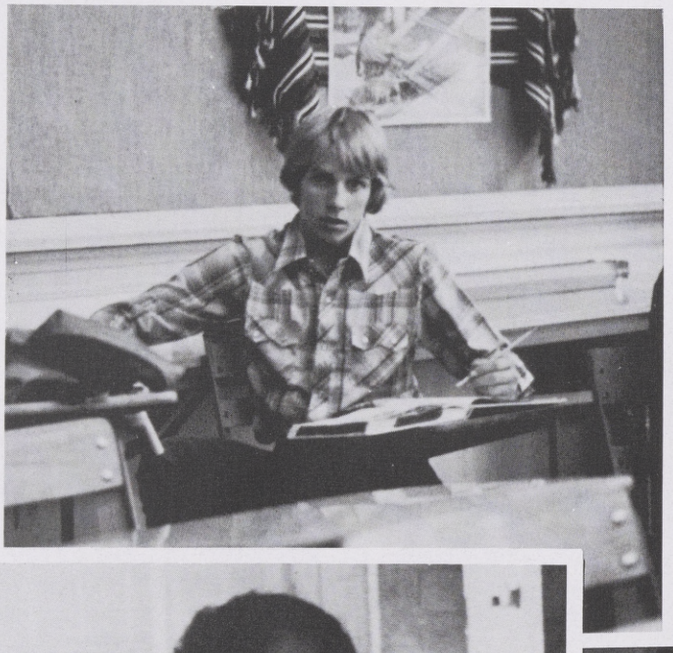
Abstract ideas merge with reality
In order to create aspirations
Reaching the heavens
Beyond the stars.
Our friendships
Remain forever-
Never ending-
Eternally reaching new heights.

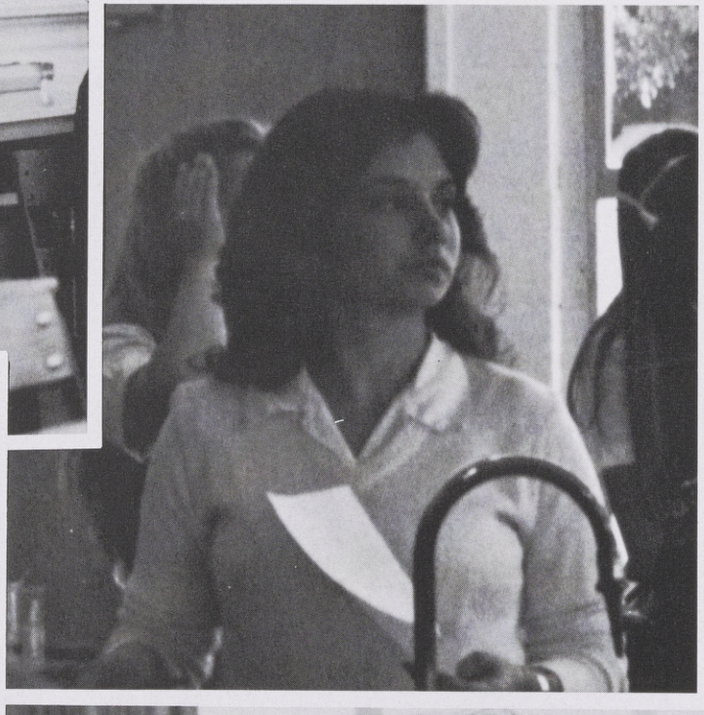
Against the turbid turquoise skies
The light and luminous balloons
Dip and drift like satin moons,
Drift like silken butterflies;

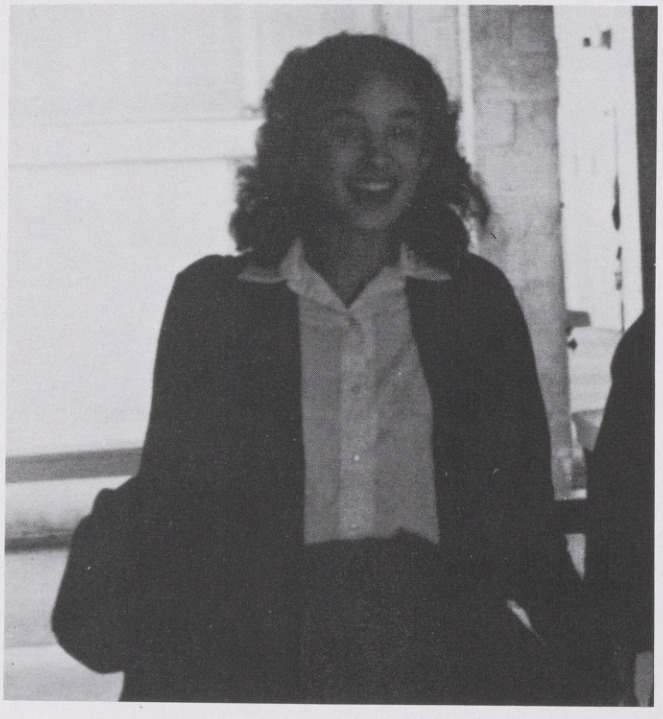


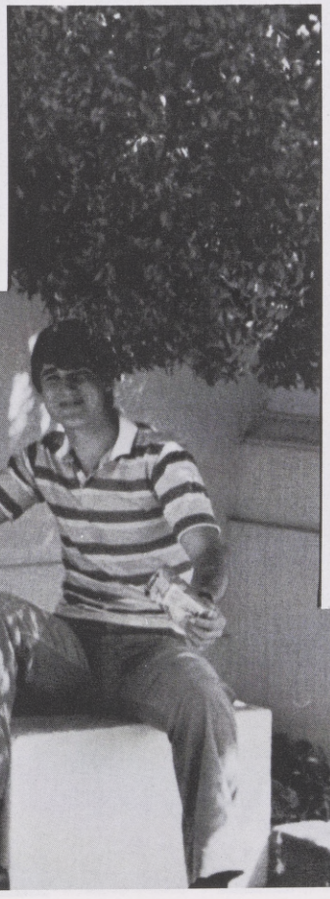


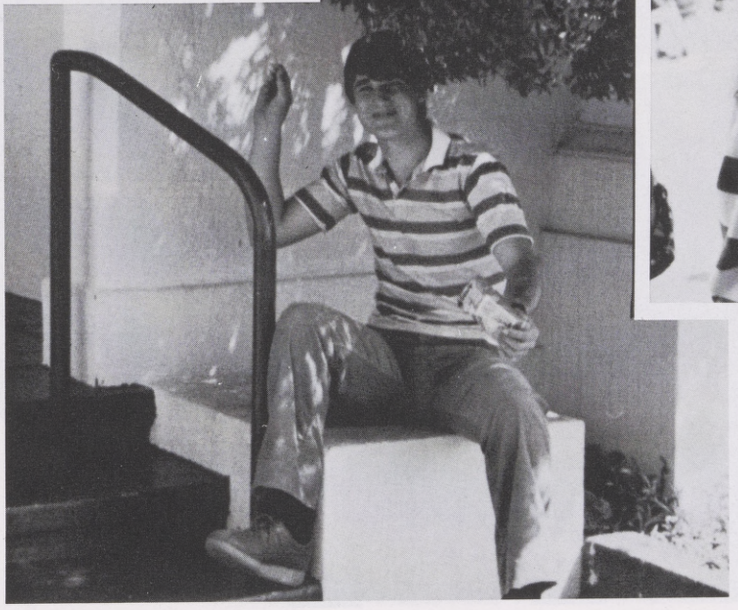
Reel with every windy gust,
Rise and reel like dancing girls,
Float like strange transparent pearls,
Fall and float like silver dust.











Now to low leaves they cling,
Each with coy fantastic pose,
Each a petal of a rose
Straining at a gossamer string.-Oscar Wilde

Activities

Leading their fellow students and setting a good example for all, the student council did a wonderful job of representing and ruling the student body. Putting the Presidential seal on all official documents this year were Guille Quintero and Tim Degrano. Always busy planning masses and dances were vice-presidents Emalyn Lapus and Steven Babjack. Pinching pennies and counting quarters were treasurers Maribel Castillo and Mike Jennings. Other busy cabinet members were Kathy Bellusa and Darryl Glover, secretaries; Rose Porcincula, N.D. activities; and Jeri Johnson, N.D. Athletic director.

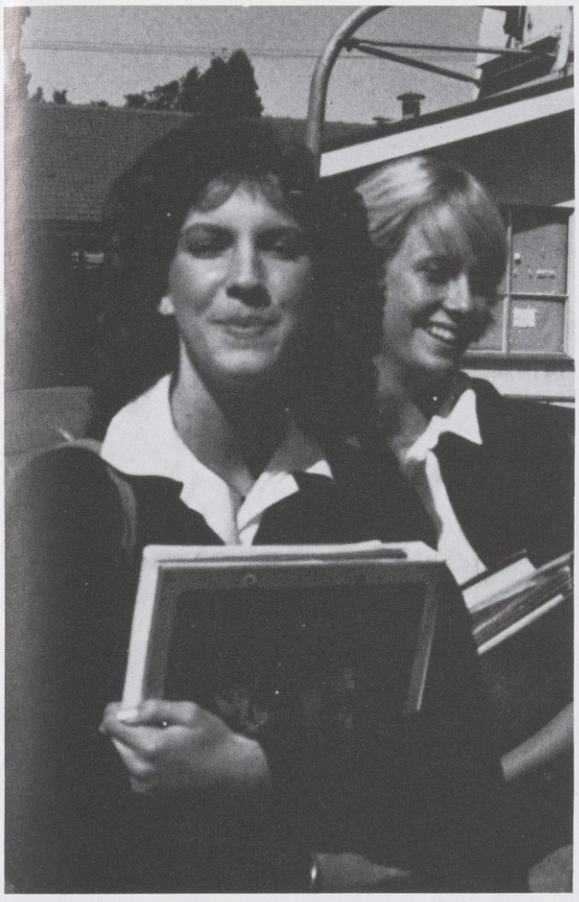
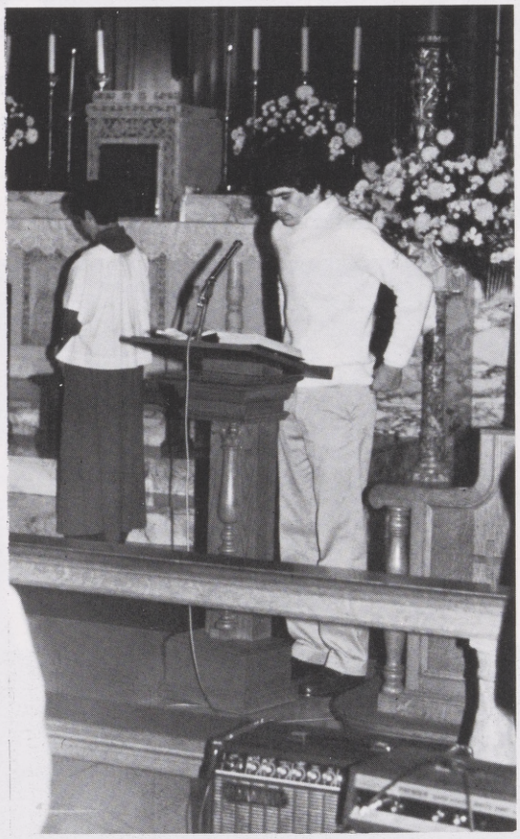
Brown Bagging It

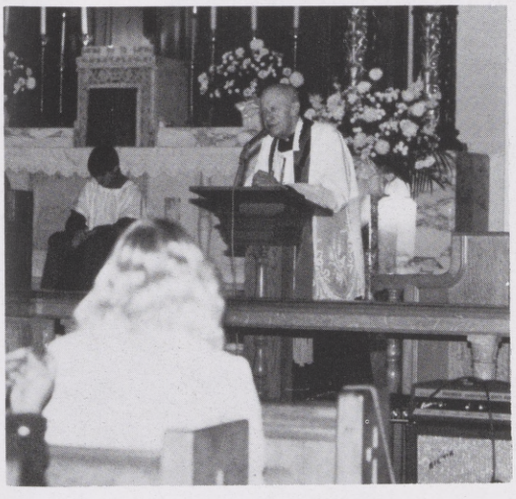
The word, lunch, took on a new meaning this year as the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors filled this prized thirty-five minutes with crazy stunts, mischievous pranks and overall fun. And what about the seniors? They were as far away as possible enjoying off-campus privileges which were well deserved and greatly appreciated.



There certainly was, "More to do in '82," at this year's El Rancho Day Fiesta. Packed with people, the Notre Dame schoolyard played host to booths, prizes, and tons of fun for everybody there, providing a fitting opening of the school year for old and new students alike.

As usual the Saint Joseph/Notre Dame '82-'83 school year opened with a mass and closed with a mass. There were, of course, many masses in between in which the students could prove to all how truly angelic they were. The masses, most of which were put on by the student council, were special gifts to God from the students who put their hearts into song, readings and prayer. The spirit, warmth and sacrifice shown by the students in the mass exemplify the true purpose of our schools.

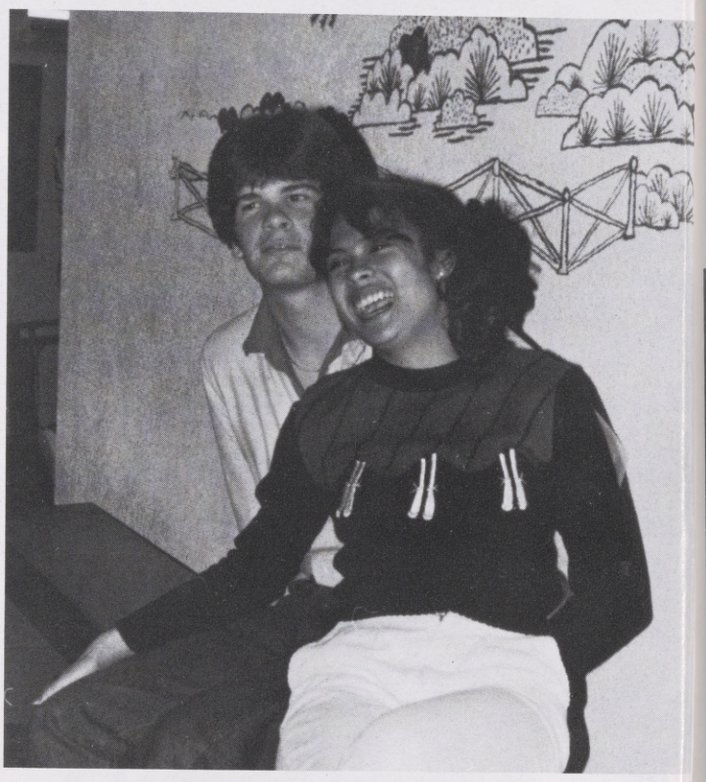




We Gather Together

Dance, dance, dance.

Studying, homework, teachers, deadlines—GAD-ZOOKS!! What can the students of Saint Joseph and Notre Dame do to relieve themselves of that hideous pressure every student faces? Well, don't fret-sweat! Because that's just what every student here did this year at our wild and crazy dances, each one strategically placed to release all that built up stress, and each one packed with uncontrolled fits of shaking and shrieking as well as mellow moments of solitude. Our gym and hall hosted the sweaty spastics, cool creepers and alien artists of the dance floors, and whoever was left over from the wide collection of devout dancers on campus. Timid freshmen learned the moves or devised their own at the Freshmen Welcome Dance, radicals and those "with it" strutted their stuff at the various themed dances, and old friends had it out for the final time at the perennial Junior/Senior Ball, remembering old times and preparing for new ones, while all the time exiting the hardwood floors with sore feet and throbbing hearts. Yes, how did we spell a good time and relief? D-A-N-C-E-S.

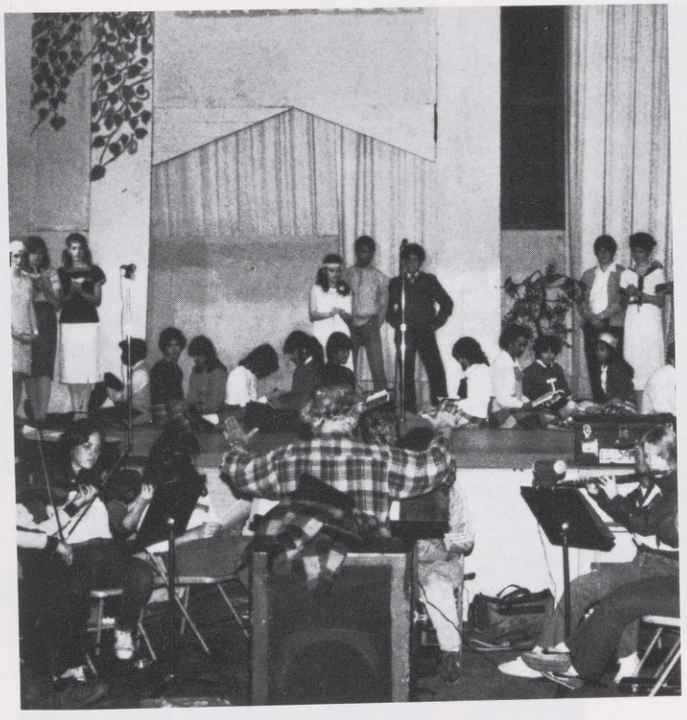


Inventions!!
DOSCOPE

Spirit Week '82 opened this year with a bang of technology as each division battled each other with all the technological means at hand. Technology was, of course, the major theme, and with all their data prepared and programmed over weeks of planning, the Panthers, Lions, Eagles, and Pilots rocked the gym walls with their incredible spirit input. After an exhausting four days of ranting and stomping, the judges yielded their output. Freshmen, with the help of E.T., came away with an award for a superb skit, Juniors won parade and sportsmanship honors, and the seniors ruled Spirit Week with the overall trophy; most significant of all, a renewed, unified student body emerged from the gym at the week's end, and this is the ultimate goal of Spirit Week.

We've got spirit!

Begin with one bright Friday afternoon; and twenty pounds of hot dogs and plenty of soda, chips, and cookies. Stir in volleyball and softball to suit individual tastes, and mix several hundred fun-loving teenagers with a dash to change from schoool clothes to jeans. Bake in the warm sun for 1½ hours, and the result is the all-school picnic, prepared twice a year by those capable cooks in Student Council.



Good News!

News? What news? Why, "Good News" of course! That's what the audience of "Good News" had to say about the successful and entertaining light drama-comedy put on by SJ/ND students. Directed by Mr. Derryl Bond, coordinator and leader of the large undertaking, "Good News" played on March 11 and 12, selling well at the box offices at school and marking 1983 as one of SJ/ND's big years eventwise. St. Joseph's gym was honored to have its stage extended and lit for two nights at $3.50/$2.50 a seat. Was the price right? Many thought so, and those who lived in the limelight for two nights after practicing and rehearsing for months made the price-mighty fine!

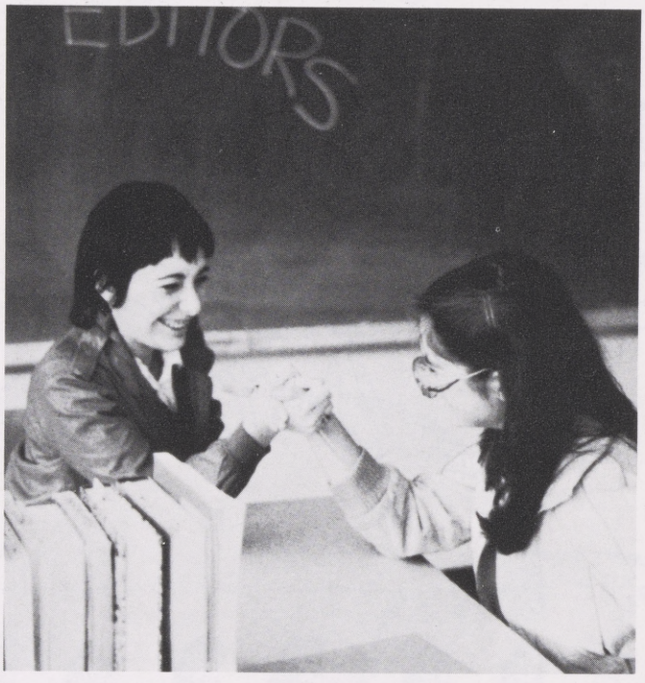
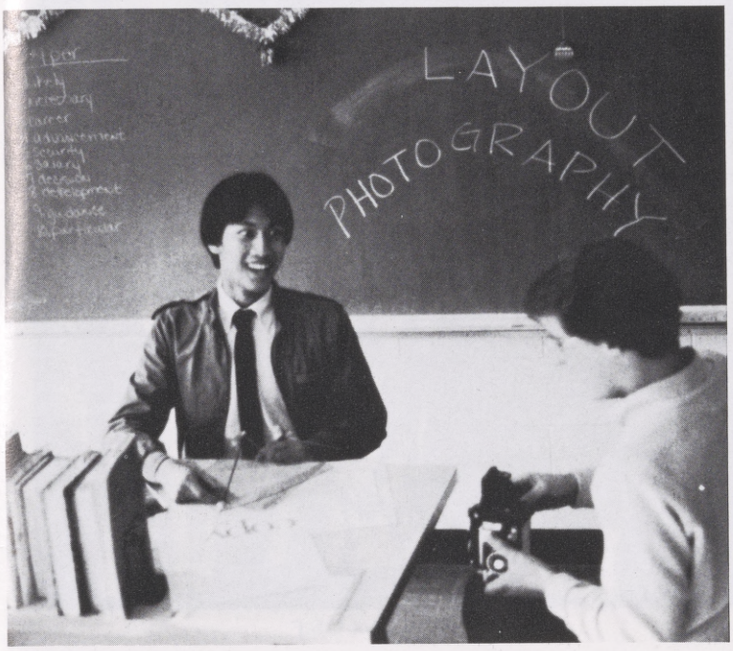
The last deadline!

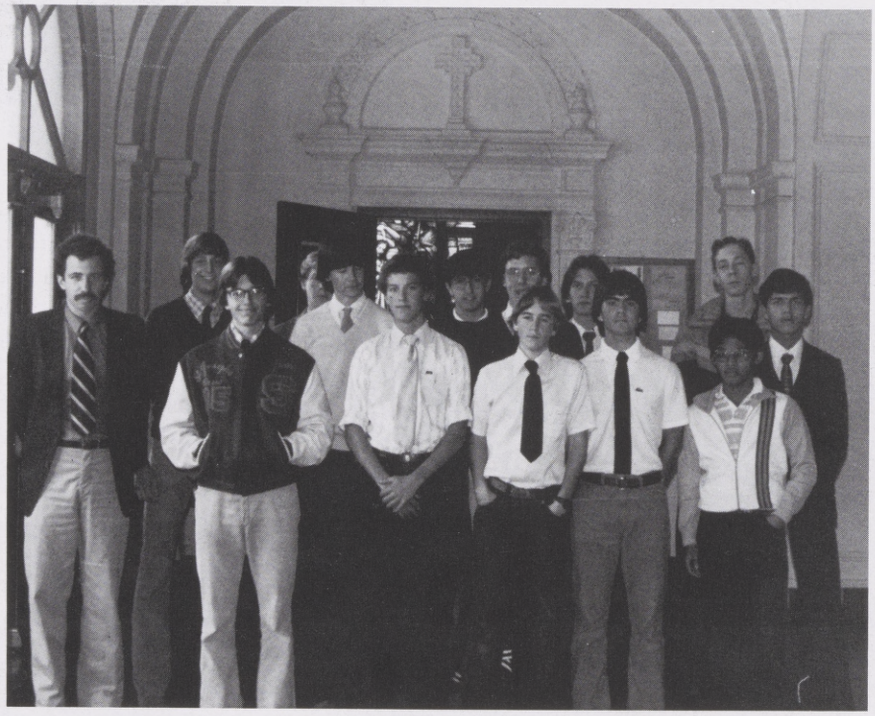




Led by Mrs. Barnett, yearbook moderator, the '82-'83 Reflections staff overcame looming deadlines to present another portfolio of our school's perspectives and the true meaning of life at St. Joseph/Notre Dame. With a rather small staff this year, the Reflections workers proved that good things can come in small packages.

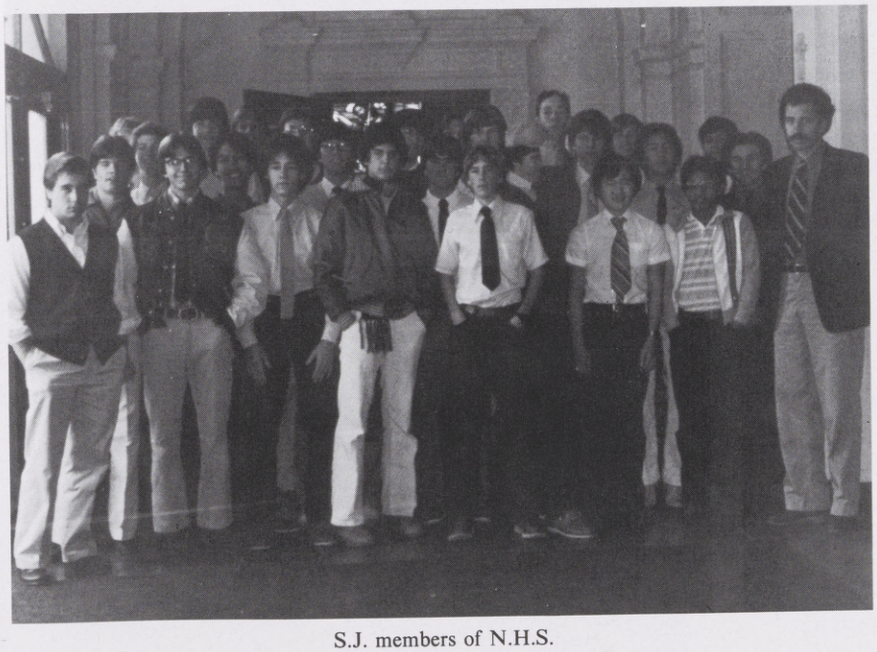
Led by moderators Sister Catherine Theresa and Mr. David McCord, the California Scholarship Federation recruited many members with a grade point average of 3.5 or above. Not only did CSF members have outstanding grades, they also did a good deal of voluntary community service and gave to charity. As a reward for their hard work and generosity, the graduating members received special recognition at the end of the year.

N.D. members of C.S.F.



S.J. members of C.S.F.

N.D. members of N.H.S.



S.J. members of N.H.S.

Under the leadership of moderators Sister Mary Elizabeth and Mr. David McCord, members of the National Honor Society participated in community activities, studied diligently and served as examples to the rest of the student body.

As always, this year's Science Club drew a large crowd of students who were eager to learn more about the fascinating world of science. Led by moderator Mr. Jack Coakley, the science club planned a variety of activities. The club started out the year with a trip to an accelerator and later planned such events as tide-pooling. Members agree that the science club made learning fun.

Members of the 1982-1983 Alpine Ski Club.

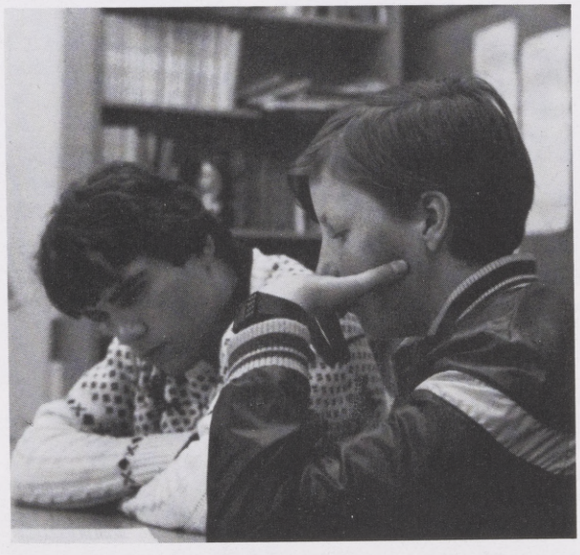
Hitting the slopes is a perfect way to relieve all those pressures associated with school, and maybe this is the reason for the popularity of the Alpine Club. We all know that St. Joseph and Notre Dame are chock full of ski bunnies and lodge lovers who can't wait to be set loose on a pair of skis, but there were also those who just went to play in the snow. No matter the reason for going, everybody had fun.

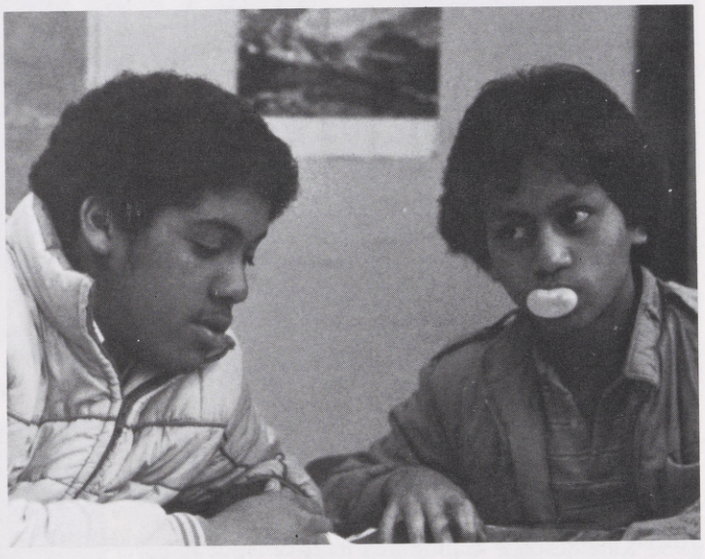
Members of the 1982-1983 Alpine Ski Club.

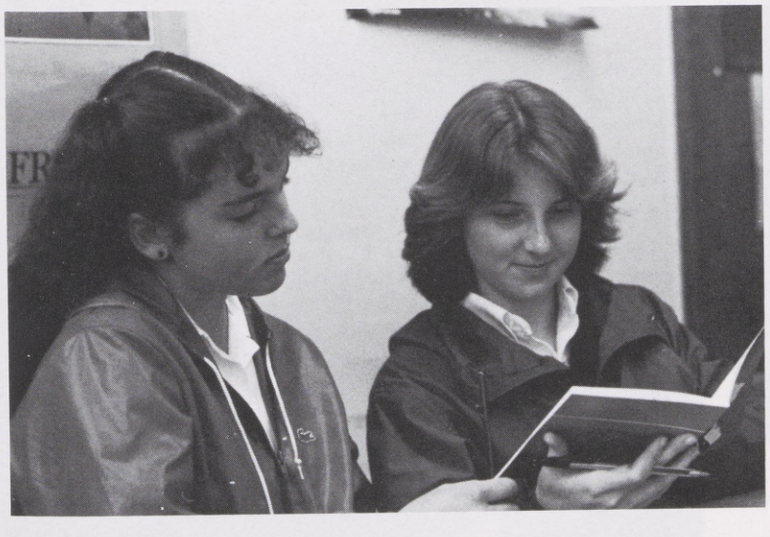
Members of the 1982-1983 Spanish Club.

Hola amigos! Sponsoring their ever popular burrito sales, the Spanish Club raised money for their various projects and outings. Not only do we appreciate those tasty burritos, but we respect the reverence exemplified annually in their special mass in honor of our Lady of Guadalupe. Certainly the Spanish Club is simpre festivo!

Members of the 1982-1983 French Club.



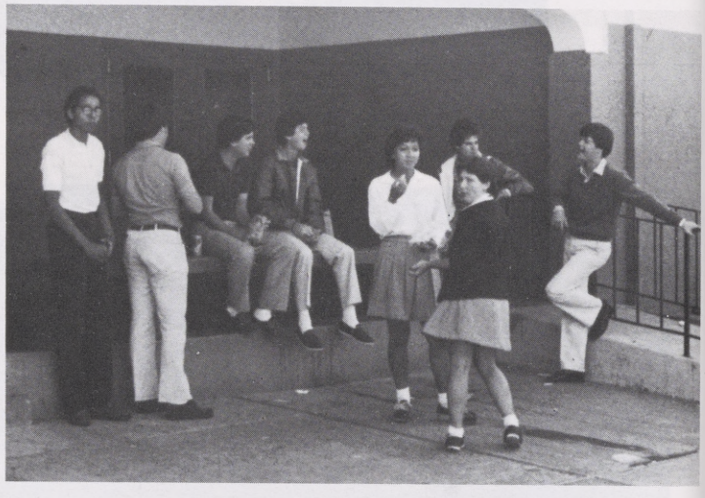


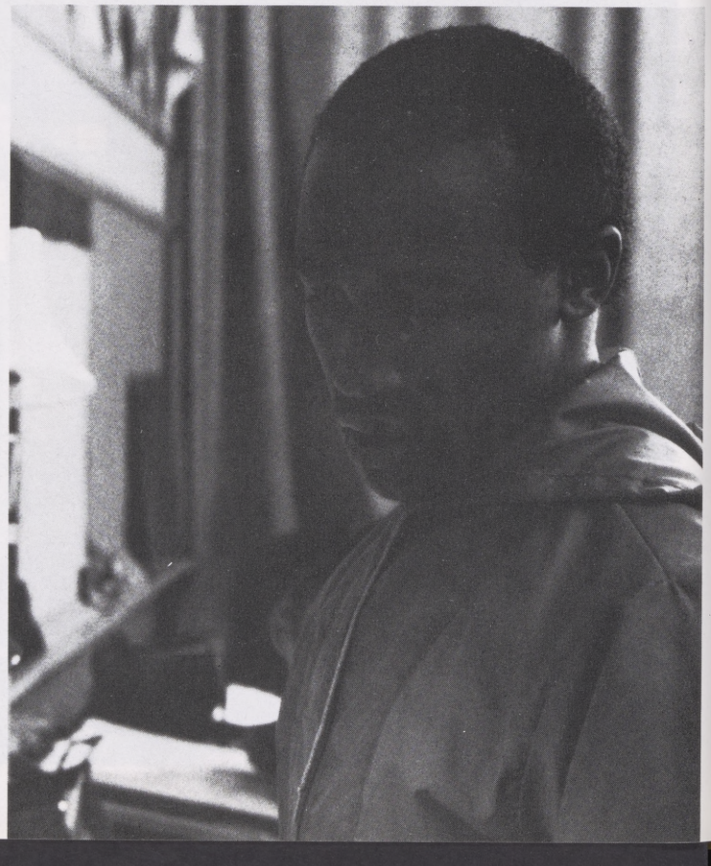


The big event sponsored by the French Club this year was a trip to France. The outline of the trip consisted of two weeks in various parts of France and one week in any part of Europe the group decided on. This trip was quite a change from the usual activities of the French Club such as croissant sales and pot luck lunches. Although the trip was sponsored by the French Club, moderated by Madame Abrami, any student who was interested was welcome.

SJ/ND Makes Headlines!

Members of the 1982/1983 Kaleidoscope staff.





1983 Kaleidoscope maintained its excellence in covering the news and campus opinoin. This school year the Kaleidoscope earned second place in the Card and Quill national high school newspaper survey. Thanks to the reporters, photographers, editors, croppers and advisor Miss Christine Micheli, we got the facts and both sides of controversial administration and student council decisions. Always faithful to their calling as the beacons in the often stormy sea of campus discontent and confusion, the newspaper staff's 25 members brought us good coverage of important events and lightened the mood.

The fact that the Girls' Athletic Association is comprised of some of the best female athletes of Notre Dame is in itself quite an accomplishment, but also the GAA is one club that contributes a lot to the school. By sponsoring their doughnut sales and calendar sales they were able to raise enough money to help pay for a school van for Notre Dame. Thank you GAA- we couldn't have "donut" without you.

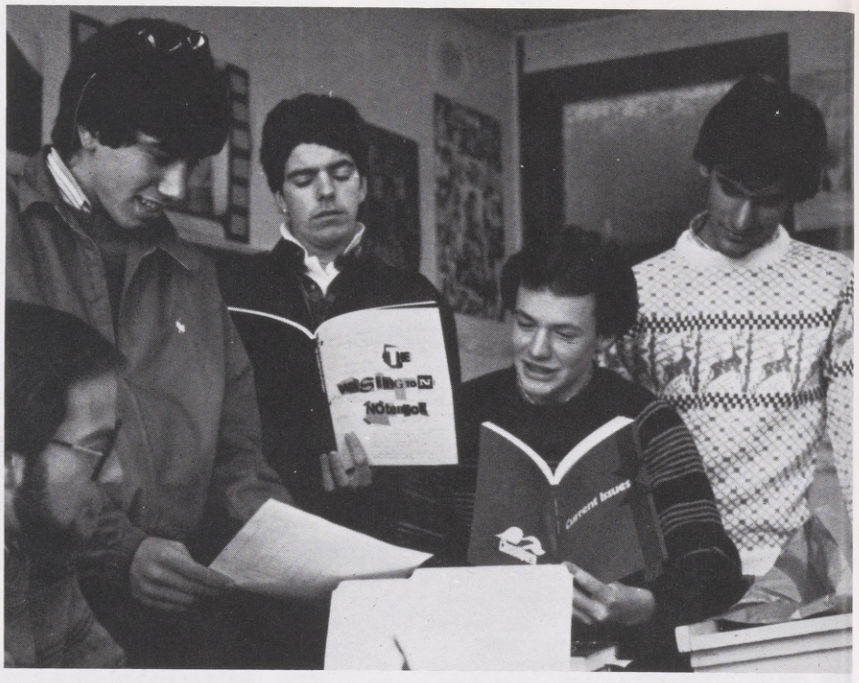
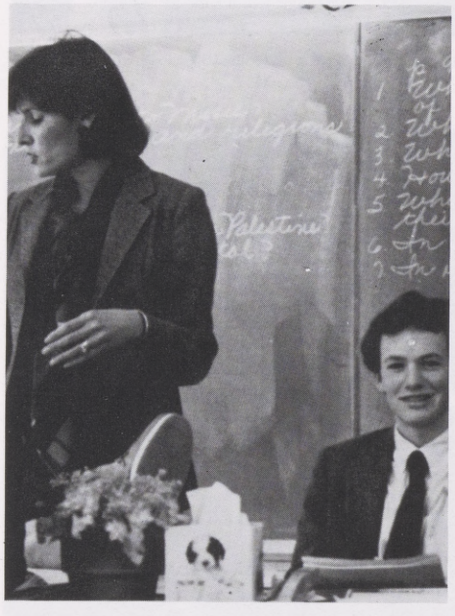
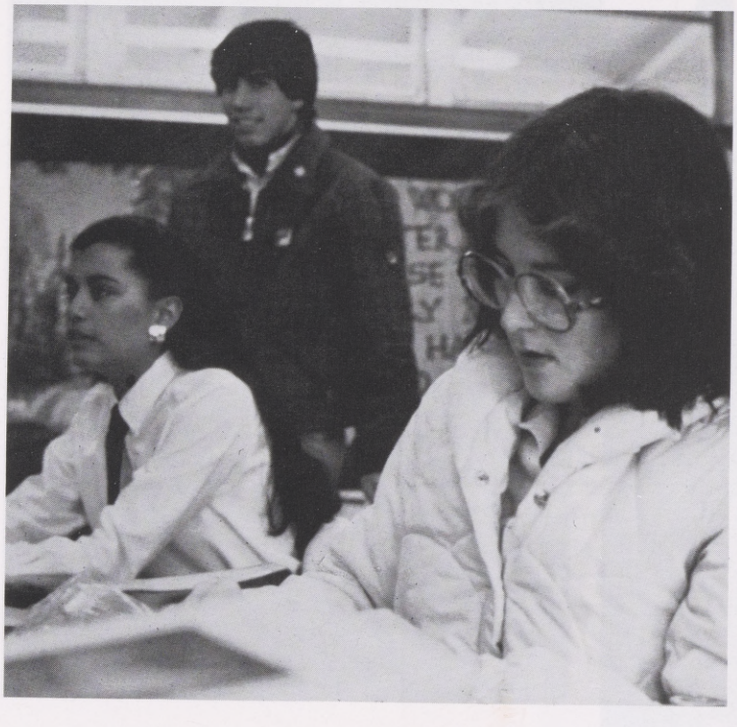
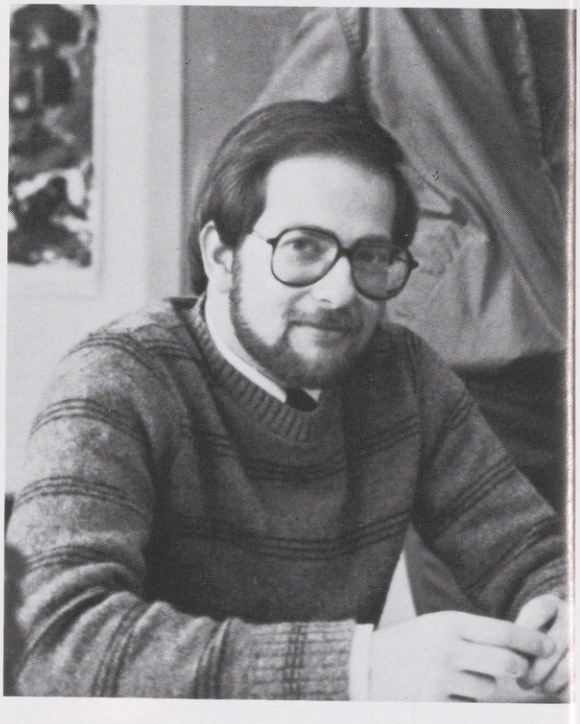
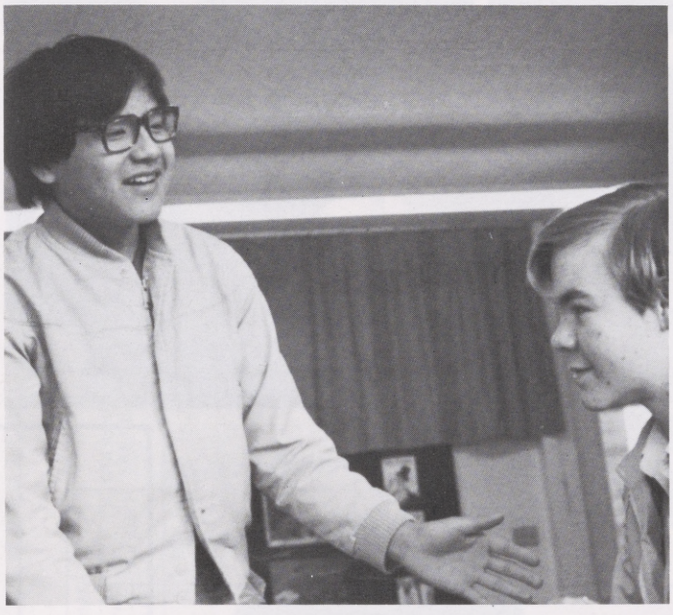
The purpose of the Close Up foundation is to help students learn about their government, and learn they did! Preparing for a trip to Washington, the members of Close Up put in many hours gathering funds and making plans. Weekly meetings held by moderators Sharon Lane and Greg Fonzeno were designed to give the students a sampling of the information they would pick up in Washington.

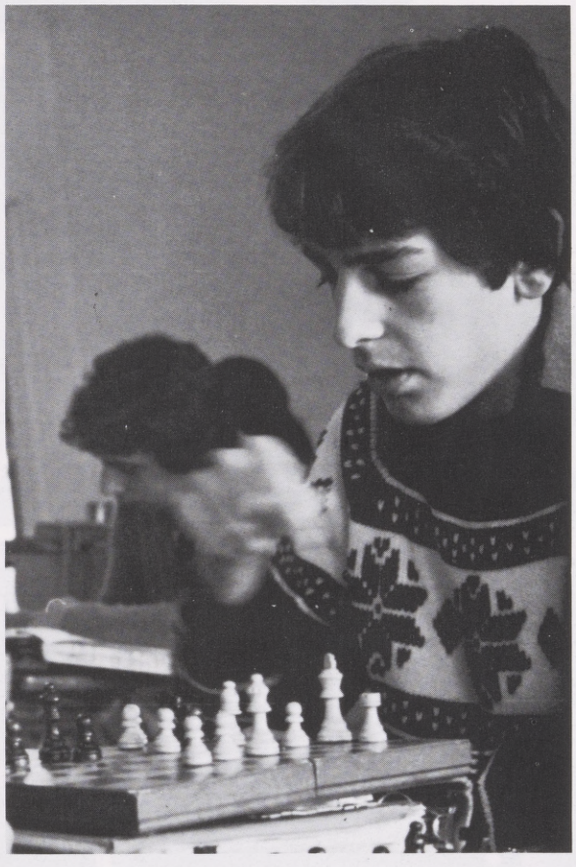


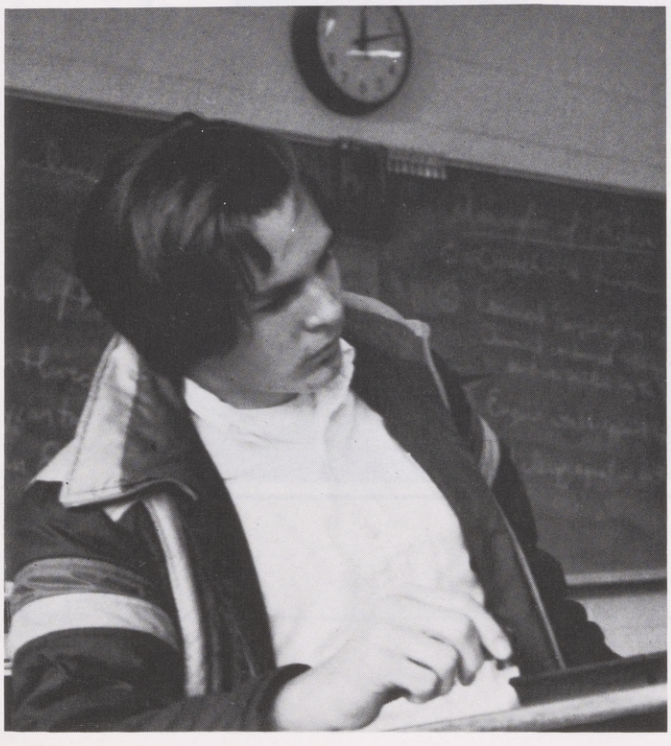












Perry's Pawns.

Check and mate-the deadliest words a person could hear? Well, maybe not to you, but to the members of the Chess Club, now that's a different story! The Chess Club, under the direction of Mr. Steve, provided intellectuals with the opportunity to release all frustrations in a good game of chess. Every day at lunch one could see the few chosen ones sneak into Mr. Perry's room to play the game of the masters. Although chess was the main game played by the members of the Chess Club, other games were available. The strong second goes to Dungeons and Dragons. Who knows, maybe next year there will be a Dungeons and Dragons Club!

As we all know, it's not easy being the new kids on the block, but the class of '86 proved themselves to be a brave group, facing locker combinations, six classes, and mean old upperclassmen with scarcely a whimper or a tear. Truly they overcame all difficulties and soared to new heights.

As we all know, being freshmen is not an easy task, but the load can be lightened if the class has a good group of leaders. This is especially true of the freshman class of 1986. Led by presidents Marty Walsh and Brian Washington, the freshmen attained unity and respect. Keeping tight reins on the books and records were Pascale Chevreux and Terry Fedder. Under the leadership of such people, how could a class go wrong? In the frosh's opinion, they can't!

Forever searching for the mythical elevators to the swimming pool and bumping into locked furnace doors, bumbling into the forbidden senior breezeway and dodging moribund ostriches, the freshmen gradually became full participants in the fun and foolishness which is as much a part of our schools as the never-ending homework.

Decked out in red and black, the panthers showed their strength with a mighty roar and with a sweep of the tail captured the audience as well as the trophy for best skit. The class of '86 broke the tradition of the frosh and gained the respect of the upperclassmen through their creativity, unity and spirit.

The Sophomore student council, under the leadership of class presidents Mary Jane Manuel and Sloan Venables, has helped to unify the Sophomore class. Vice-presidents Patricia Sandri, Sheelagh Murphy, Melissa Butler, and John DiRoucco, along with secretary-treasurers Jim Herrington and Virginia Martinez worked hard to keep the class together. Thanks to the Sophomore student council the sophomore class is unified and growing closer all the time.

By September of 1982, the class of 1985 was totally accustomed to the fun filled, crazy, and ever-changing life of high students, and the new sophomores were ready to make their mark on the school. Armed always with smiles on their lips, friends by their sides, and books in their backpacks, the sometimes studious sophomores prepared to launch an attack on the belief that sophs are somewhat inferior. And what an impression they made! By the end of the year, they had everyone convinced that sophomores are people too.

The yellow and blue lions, determined to claw their way to the top, growled with spirit as their inventions made an impact on technology. These cats made a great mark on stunts, cheering and dominated the games with the seniors. With the whole school looking on, they showed what soph pride meant and boosted school spirit. Surely next year's sophs will be hard-pressed to match their performance.

The junior class of 1984, also known as the red and white Eagles, made an impression on the judges at Spirit Week this year. Yelling until they were hoarse and digging in the closet for something to wear each day, the juniors showed the true meaning of the word spirit. Naturally their efforts did not go unrewarded, for the juniors gladly and proudly took the trophy for the best sportsmanship. The juniors topped off the week with the promise to be victorious next year, and everyone knows that juniors keep their promises!

Striving and straining, huffing and puffing, this year's Cross Country team, led by moderator Jack Coakley, did an excellent job representing our schools. Both the Pilots' and Falcons' teams showed what they were made of. As usual, they had a spectacular season highlighted with medals, ribbons, and trophies testifying to what we knew all along-how great they are!

S.J. Oarsmen.

Our SJ oarsmen returned this year to the Oakland Strokes boathouse on the estuary in order to catch back their previous years' rating as one of the Bay Area's and nation's fastest crews. A strong core of four varsity oarsmen and four new recruits joined the ranks as the crew travelled to Corvallis, Oregon, for the annual crew classic there and raced hot crews around the Bay Area and West Coast. Filling more than half of the Strokes "Varsity 8" as well as other boats, our oarsmen sprinted against crews from all over the country.

No year would be complete without the ever-popular golf and tennis teams. These two extra-special teams are particularly popular because they were designed for all those budding Ben Hogans and John Macenroes of the future with whom we have the pleasure of rubbing elbows. So if in the near future you happen to hear "St. Joseph student takes Wimbeldon by storm," it's just par for the course.

Anything Fore Love.

Delay of Game?! Cheerleaders without pompoms? Volleyballs flying into the baskets? These are just a few of the strange but hilarious happenings to the girls' volleyball team. The volleyball team had fun, but when it came to work, hard work, they got down to it! The varsity team record was 3-10, while the J.V. was 1-12.

Their firepower yet to be fully developed, our frosh shootists carried the Pilot name through the 1983 season with promise and impressive improvement. Dennis Young's freshmen laid down the cornerstone for a future squad of J.V. and varsity players, whose skill and determination to gain the fruits of victory can only be hopefully and confidently awaited. With a strengthened defense and some very fine offensive players such as Gavin Tadeny, Chris Magnuson, Gary Freitas and Tom Ford, the frosh hoopers look, as S.J. can, to the future with confidence as these new students prove themselves.

Members of the 1983 J.V. Basketball Team under coach Marvin Vitatoe.

As always, J.V. coach Marvin Vitatoe's bouncers rebounded off of freshmen introduction to St. Joseph's basketball building strength and outscoring their counterparts around the Bay Area and the state, our matured J.V.'S revealed the end product of their first year as Pilot netters. Mr. Vitatoe commented that there was, "a tremendous amount of improvement" in the athletes from last year, and since the opening games of the 1983 season. Returning players, John Lydon, Darryl Majors, Jeff Moraes and the rest of our gang returned in power, spirit and determination to endure months of hard, demanding training and endless games against their unrelenting fellow dribblers. We all look forward to seeing them advance to the ranks of varsity in the years to come, and to blast away those tough opponents.

J.V. Basketball Stars.

Coach Frank LaPorte and his varsity Pilots continued their winning record from the last year. They swept Alameda's Island City Classic Basketball Tournament and continued overseas to Hawaii for a bombing run which ended in a tip in of Terry Yancey's last second field goal attempt to win the tournment for our Pilots veterans, and boosted them into mainstream competition. Returning varsity netters Shawn Jenkins, Kevin McMiller, Chris Henderson, and Terry Yancey formed a strong core supported by new varsity members. Bishop O'Dowd was challenged in the Oakland Coliseum, and CAL opponents were strafed far and wide by our agressive and unrelenting swishers, and those foolish enough to let the Pilots tread on heels—, such as Saint Patrick's, DeLaSalle, Moreau, and others-were sadly mistaken in their dreams of victory as our boys brought home the bacon from under their noses. Frosh and J.V. players- you'll be hard pressed to meet or better the record set by Mr.LaPorte's shyboys, and we're behind you all the way!

When it came to hustle, the Notre Dame Falcons cagers gave it their all. With a team of nine players, they showed spirit, movement and teamwork. Once again, the Falcons had a young team and a new coach, Miss Toni DeBella. The team consisted of three frosh, two sophs, three juniors, and one senior.

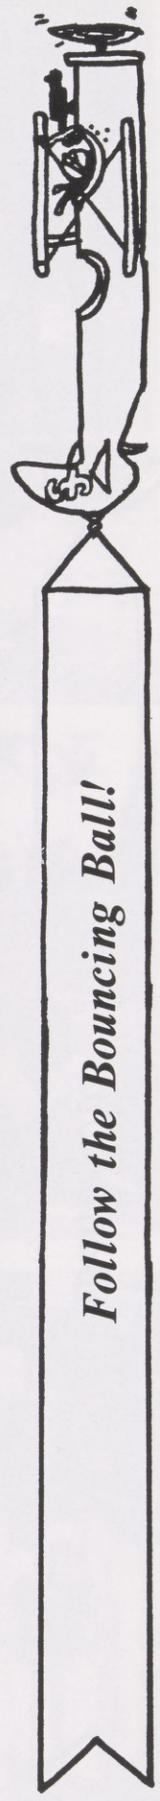
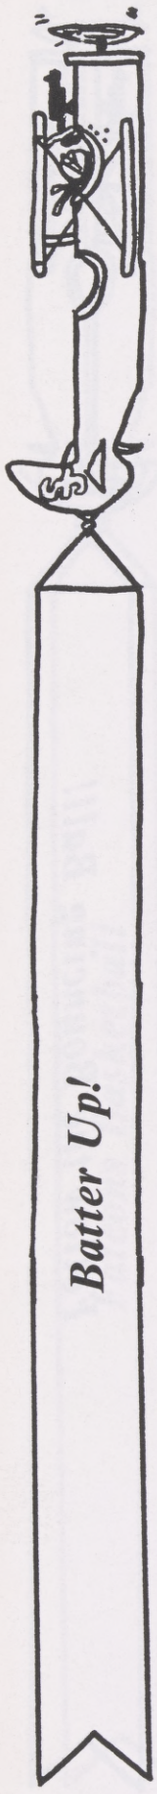
The soccer team of 1983 started out with young and inexperienced players and a few returning ones. Under the coaching of Chris Sims, the Pilots' Soccer team worked hard, played tough and most of all played as a team. "Even though we did not have a winning season," remarked goalie, Arjang Sohrabi,"We learned respectively, and I expect that future soccer teams will prosper from this season. "Soccer is a growing sport, and it is catching on, here at S.J./N.D.





Batter Up!

Everyone knows of the infamous St. Joseph Pilots basketball team, right? Right. Well what do you think they do in the off season? That's right they play baseball, and they play pretty well too! Of course it's a little hard to adjust to cleats, gloves and a little ball after all those months in the gym, but as always the Pilots came through for their fans and had fun while doing it.

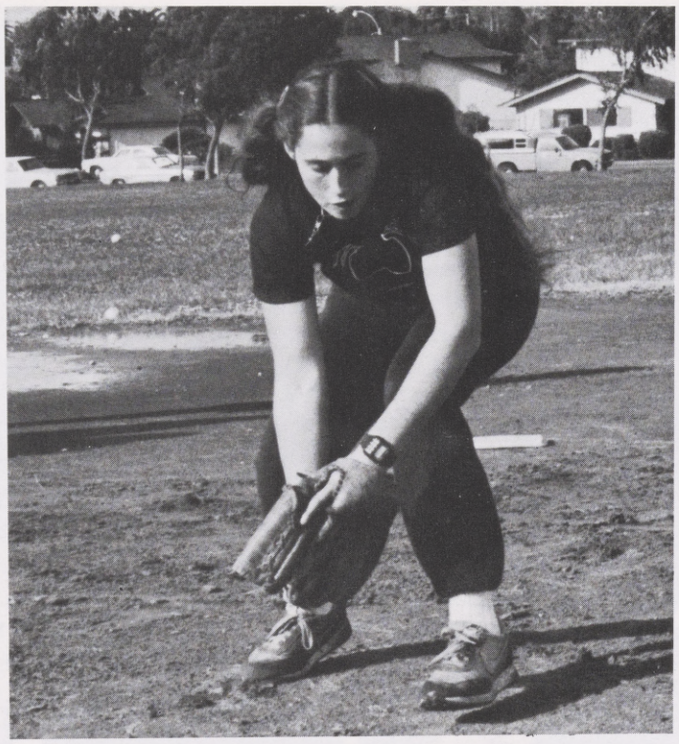
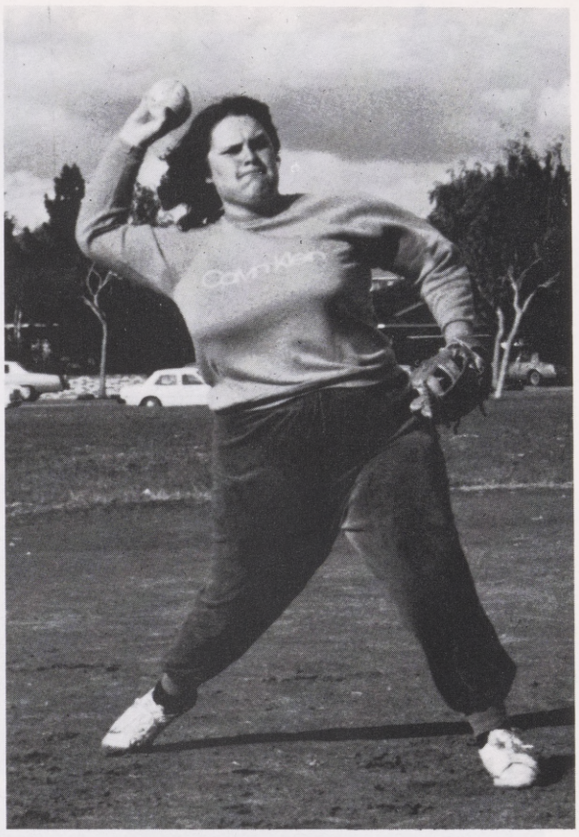
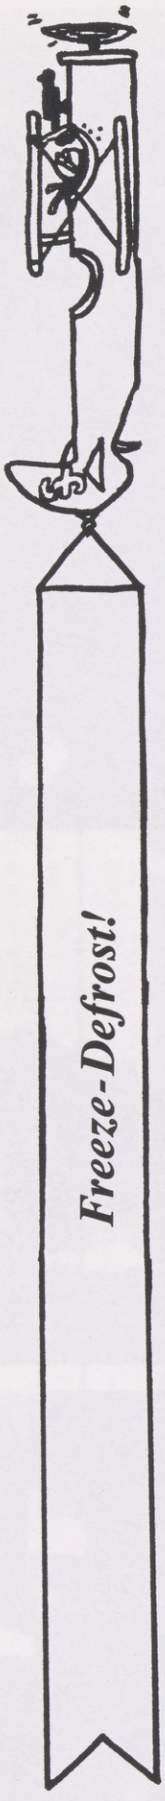
Girl's Softball.

"Diamonds are a girl's best friend," never truer than when Spring comes to Alameda and the Notre Dame Falcons hit the softball diamond. Coach Leslie Partsch's sluggers, pitchers, and speedy runners outdid themselves in teamwork and sportsmanship as they racked up runs, hits, and as few errors as possible. Their successful season proved that the "national pastime" is alive and well at Notre Dame.



Members of the 1983 Falcons softball team.





Freeze-Defrost!

Pilot and Falcon fans shivering from winter's chill were quickly warmed by our exuberant cheerleaders who helped make this year's basketball games more exciting and louder than ever. Our cheerleaders and song girls held our attention and were the catalysts of gym-shaking grunts and roars. Sporting some of the best uniforms and cheer sequences in the Bay Area, they may even have sung and danced the opposition into submission-they certainly made this year count for our teams and cheering section at St. Joseph and Notre Dame.

AIRBORNE -- is it concrete or is it abstract? The teacher says it is an adjective. Certainly it is descriptive of whatever is airy. Certainly it refers to a greater distance from the earth the higher airborne it becomes.

In the opposite direction it is heavenward. It is like prayer to a certain extent, that pierces the clouds and remains before the Throne of God.

Let this theme be well chosen because it stimulates sublime thoughts and at least suggests heavenward attention. Thus, we encounter and enjoy unearthly recollection, and feast our souls on celestial happiness and the mysteries therein contained. These mysteries are not nebulous; they are truths and realities that are not fully understood yet real and undeniable.

So let us lift up our hearts and enjoy loving God more fully and more genuinely. Holy Scripture tells us to "lift up our eyes". We also have another tradition of closing our eyes in prayer. This, of course, gives us the opportunity of undistractedly lifting our mental vision airborne to the Lord God from Whom there is no escape, and Who will outlive the earth itself.

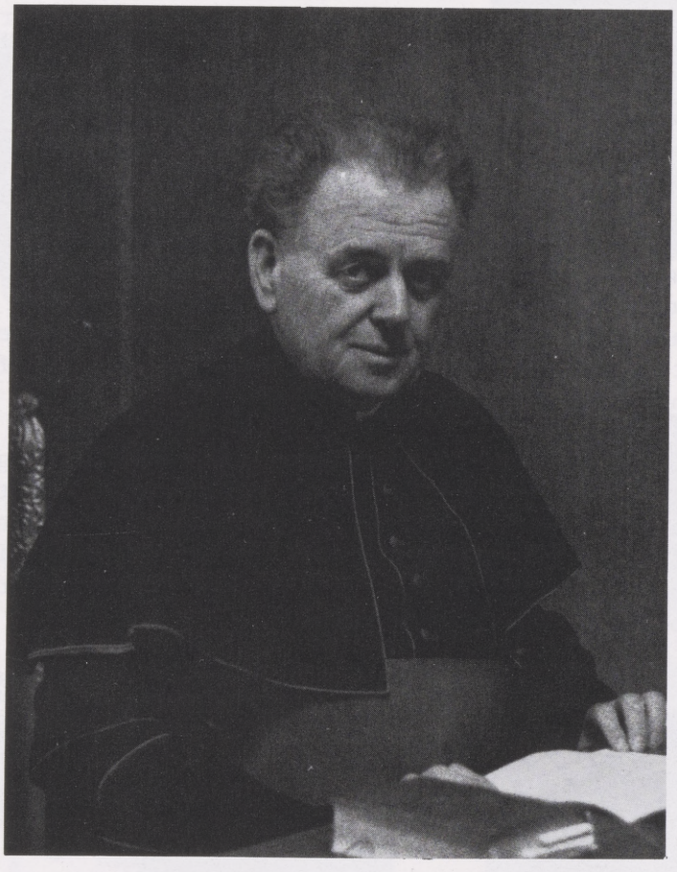
(Rev. Msgr.) Alvin P. Wagner, Pastor

Dedication



MONSIGNOR ALVIN P. WAGNER

To show our appreciation and high regard for the vocation of Monsignor Wagner we, the staff, feel that it is most fitting to dedicate this yearbook to our inspirational pastor. This is a small way to show our gratitude for the twenty-five years of dedication and commitment to the educational development of the students of Saint Joseph's and Saint Joseph's Notre Dame High Schools. We feel priviliged to join with others who have benefited from the religious leadership of Monsignor Wagner during his fifty years of devout service to God and man, and so we offer our prayers and best wishes for this, his Golden Jubilee year.

Thank You!

We, the Yearbook Editors, would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who made this book a reality. Although our staff was very small, the concentrated efforts of each member made many new features possible. It is our intention to recognize the preseverance and dedication of our immediate staff.

First of all, we extend thanks to the Layout staff which means Layout Editor Ray Natac, Dolores Paz, and Pedro Paz. Sana Ishaq also drew several spreads. We appreciate all of the time these staff members spent on getting their assignments done perfectly and on time. We wish to apologize to Ray for the misunderstanding concerning the number of mugs on each Senior Spread. Next time, we'll let you figure it out yourself!

The next major staff is the Copystaff. Copy Editor Robin Miller and Jim MacLean did a wonderful job under an undue amount of pressure. Jeri Johnson, Arjang Sohrabi, and Julie Lucchesi also wrote several pieces of copy. These people helped us out of tight spots, and we are grateful to them. We apologize to Robin for supposedly losing her picnic copy. Maybe someday you'll find it hidden in your typewriter. Besides, after all the copy you wrote, what's one more piece?

Photography is obviously an important part of our yearbook. The Photography Editor was Mike Jennings, whose staff consisted of Pepe Davis. Mr. Johnson generously contributed Falcon sports photos, while John Jaber took many of the ad photos. We feel that it is necessary to tell Mr. Jennings that, although we may have acted quite differently, we know he tried very hard and did a wonderful job. We apologize for losing our tempers, which we did quite often. We also apologize for the problems concerning who would be allowed on this most selective staff. Don't forget, Mike, you let the best one get away!

The Business staff is responsible for the financial stability of the yearbook. Shirley Jaber and Toby Anderson were Co-Business Editors. They, along with Emalyn Lapus, worked hard getting ads from businesses for which we are grateful. Melissa Butler was very helpful in collecting balances due from students before school and at lunch. We also wish to thank those who supported our yearbook by buying ads. The Notre Dame PTG and Bordanaro and Zarcone also contributed generous donations to help fund our yearbook, and we are extremely thankful. We apologize for keeping Toby from his donuts and for putting Shirley's life in jeopardy by taking away two ad pages.

We must also thank our wonderful artists, Elsie Aquino and Jon Estelita. Elsie made many lovely posters as Publicity Editor. She also drew a very fitting piece of artwork which helped to carry out our theme. Jon made our theme possible by contributing two wonderful pieces of artwork. We will never be able to thank these two people enough.

Our final thank you goes to Mrs. Barnett, Yearbook Moderatore. We could not have done all of this without your help. We can never thank you enough so we'll just simply say—THANKS!!
